Grayling Youth Injured When Auto Strikes Bike

Robert Denno, 14, of Grayling, was injured Saturday, August 8, about 6:30 p.m. when a vehicle struck the bike he was riding along M-72 near Old Lake Rd. A Crawford County Sheriff Dept. report said a vehicle driven by a 32-year-old Grayling man, was headed east on M-72 when it went off the roadway hitting Denno, who was also traveling east. Denno was taken to Mercy Hospital by the county ambulance crew and the Grayling man was arrested on charges of O.U.I.L., open intoxicants, and unlawful blood alcohol level. He was scheduled to be arraigned in 83rd District Court next week. Names of persons charged with violations can not be released until they are arraigned in District Court.

Jail Escapee Remains At Large

Daniel Wilkerson, 20, of Grayling, is still at large as of Tuesday, August 11, after escaping from the Crawford County jail Wednesday, August 6. Wilkerson is 5'9", about 165 pounds, blue eyes and blond hair, and was wearing a white tank top, prison blue pants, and white tennis shoes when he escaped about 2 p.m. Wednesday. He climbed a 12-foot-high fence around the outdoor recreation area at the jail. Sheriff deputies, city police, and DNR Conservation Officers started after the escapee immediately and a tracking dog followed his trail through the east side of town before losing the track. Wilkerson was lodged in jail waiting trial for a charge of stealing an auto from Grayling. Anyone seeing the subject can call the sheriff dept. 348-6341.

Van Hits Train in Morning

A van driven by an out-of-town man struck a train at the Four Mile Road crossing at about 1:58 a.m. Monday, August 10. The van was heading east and struck the 26th car of a 30-car train heading north. The Beaver Creek and Grayling Fire Departments were called to the accident and the Jaws of Life were used to free the man. He was taken to Mercy Hospital by the county ambulance crew. No name has been released yet pending possible charges.

Stolen Vehicle Recovered, 2 Juveniles Arrested

Two Pontiac youths, ages 15 and 16, were arrested for unlawfully driving away a vehicle and turned over to juvenile authorities Friday, August 7. Sheriff deputies received a strange report about 7:30 p.m. that two youths riding bikes with suitcases were on I-75 Northbound about five miles south of Grayling. Deputies found a stolen vehicle parked at the 246 mile marker and other deputies with Grayling City Police located the two youths at the rest area four miles south of town. They confessed to driving away the vehicle owned by Fred Ward, 74, of Millington.

7 Injured in Two-Car Crash

Seven persons were injured after two vehicles collided at the intersection of Old 76 and Fletcher Road about 6:59 p.m. Tuesday, August 4. The Crawford County Ambulance Corps and Emergency Medical Services ambulances transported the injured people to Mercy Hospital. A 21-year-old Roscommon man was treated and released at Mercy Hospital and then taken to the Crawford County jail on charges of O.U.I.L. Police said the vehicle driven by the Roscommon man apparently went through a stop sign at the intersection and struck the other vehicle.

Grayling Summer Already Breaking Heat Records

By Jon Thompson

It's been the hottest summer in Grayling in at least 10 years, Avalanche weather records indicate.

Even though the summer isn't over yet, 1987 has already had 37 days of 85 degree temperatures or hotter. During one hot stretch from July 17-31, high temperatures were recorded in the nineties for eight straight days and the daytime highs never went below 80 degrees until August 1.

Phillip Palmer, of the United States Weather Service, said this is the hottest and driest summer since he started at the Houghton Lake weather station nine years ago.

Palmer said the normal high temperature for June is 62.8 degrees. The 1987 average high for June was 67.1 degrees.

The normal high temperature for July is 78.9 degrees. The 1987 average high for July was 84.5 degrees.

That's 5.5 degrees higher for June and July — a large swing when you're dealing with monthly averages said Palmer.

Palmer also said rainfall is way below normal. The normal amount of yearly rainfall by the end of August is 18.79 inches. In 1987 from January 1 to August 10, only 11.51 inches of precipitation had fallen. And that's including a downpour of 2.70 inches during 16 hours on Sunday, August 9.

Getting back to hot temperatures, June and July of 1987 have recorded more days with 85 degrees or higher than any June and July dating back to 1978. With 1987's figures not yet complete, this year still has recorded more than three times as many hot days as in 1979 when only 12 days hit 85 or higher (see chart).

August of 1987 has already recorded one day of 85 degree or hotter temperatures. Looking at the records dating back to 1978, Crawford County residents have received one to 16 days at 85 or above in August. The average for August is about 7 days at 85 or hotter.

Is another heat wave coming?

'Circle the Wagon' Defense Is Used by Ohio Guard

By Sgt Robert V. Stamper
368th Public Affairs Detachment

When an artillery unit digs in for action, the commander normally selects treelines or mountain sides that provide good overhead cover. When Battery A, 1/136th Field Artillery, from Marion, Ohio, has to set up camp in the middle of a field without the benefit of having overhead cover, an order is given to "circle the wagons," just like in the movies.

Captain Daniel Allen, Battery Commander, of Marysville, Ohio, assisted in the development of this new tactic. "The traditional method of placing the howitzers in a line that resembles a 'lazy W' would never provide us with the defense we would need if we were set up in an open field," he explained. "The method we use now for these situations is like the defense the covered wagons used to defend themselves from Indian attack." The guns are placed in a circle several hundred feet apart and aimed point blank at nearby road intersections or other pre-designated defensive points. "Pointing them out toward the enemy puts the gun sections within a manageable defensive perimeter when normal fighting positions are unavailable," Allen said this increases the effectiveness of the unit. With split-second timing, gun crews are also able to point their cannons skyward and resume the normal attack role of indirect fire weapons.

Captain Allen divided his 360 degree perimeter into four equal zones. He then assigns his six cannons fields of fire that overlap each other. The six cannons with their overlapping fields of fire, cover four pie sectors.

The First Sergeant assigns the primary defensive targets for each pie section, such as a nearby road intersection. These points are the targets for the cannons.

A reaction team of several men, armed with small arms, such as the M-16 and M-60 machine gun, are always at the ready to rush into a sector of fire to assist the other battery crews with perimeter defense in the event of an attack.

Listening and observation posts are also maintained for the perimeter security. Capt. Allen said that other defensive units, such as infantry or military police would also be used to help defend the fire base.

The 136th also uses newly issued camouflage netting over all the equipment, including its trucks and cannons. These screens have a radar scrambling ability and hide the unit from aerial observation and detection from the enemy.

Pvt. 2 Roderick Anderson believes that the use of the new camouflage nets is a great idea, but said that they snag on everything and are hard to use. He expects with practice they won't have much problem using them effectively.

Anderson went further to explain that when dug in out in a field like they were, he felt more secure with the unit covering all enemy avenues of approach.

By using these new methods, the 136th is now able to set up operations in all sorts of field conditions.

The 136th Field Artillery will complete its Annual Training at Camp Grayling this week.

CLOSE ORDER DRILL — Students of the Law Enforcement Academy practice close order drill as a part of their week long training.

Camp Grayling Site For Youth Law Enforcement Academy

Unheralded with all of the National Guard activity at Camp Grayling last month was a session with 199 young people who are active in Explorer Scouts Law Enforcement or Youth Groups showing the same interest.

The youths from all over the state came to Camp Grayling for a week's intensive training on what the profession of law enforcement is about. The participants were treated to a concentrated period of training much the same as one might expect would occur in an actual police training academy.

The people marched, did push ups and suffered barracks inspection. The drill master (platoon leaders and assistants) were all volunteers from various police departments from the state. They pushed the young people to the very limits of the tolerance but when it was all over at the graduation Saturday, the applause for the trainers showed their popularity and the kids' appreciation.

Sessions throughout the week included crime scene preservation, domestic crisis intervention, accident investigation, proper traffic violation stops and criminal law. Also included in the training were classes on report writing and narcotics enforcement.

Students also fired 30 rounds of ammunition on the pistol range with a scoring system that showed 26 young people to be marksmen and three to be sharpshooters. On the range a U.S. Border Guard was the range officer and each shooter was accompanied by a coach who was either an active law officer or one that was retired. Safety was of course a concern with the one to one relationship but the youths also profited from the close coaching.

Safety was also important in the program as two full time nurses and a Scout Explorer Emergency Medical Technician group cared for the participants.

Michigan State Police Commander Col. Richie Davis spoke to the young people at the graduation ceremony and said that the future of the criminal justice system rests with the young people. He said, "Should you decide on law enforcement as a profession the opportunity, now is the greatest that it has ever been because of the introduction of high tech in the field." He gave as an example the about to be introduced automated fingerprinting identification which will enable the officers to call on a statewide network of fingerprint records.

Also addressing the participants was Detroit Police Department Commander Gilbert Hall who has appeared in movies Beverly Hills Cop I and II. He has a famous background in homicide investigation. He emphasized teamwork in his address by pointing out that if he did not have a great team he could not have attained his position. He said, "If you treat people as they should be treated, you will gain their respect and make a few friends but the greatest gain will be your own self respect."

Locally there are 10 scouts that make up the Law Enforcement Post but only two of them, Bob Smith and Woody Lawson, were able to attend the academy. Crawford County Deputy Paul Smith was the local officer to act on the academy staff. He said that it was the best put-together program he was ever involved with.

FAMOUS DETECTIVE — Police Commander Gilbert Hill of the Detroit Police Department is famous for his role as one of five detectives called to Atlanta, Georgia to help solve the child murders there. He spoke last week to graduates of the Law Enforcement Academy.

Grayling MESCC Placed 370 Workers in Year

During the 12-month program year which ended June 30, 1987, the West Branch office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESCC) reports placing 2344 people in jobs with local employers. Another 302 job-seekers found jobs on their own after receiving MESCC services such as Tax Credit Vouchers, according to Timothy Herrick, MESCC Job Service Manager.

Herrick said his Job Service staff managed to have a productive year in helping people find jobs despite being hampered by several unexpected staff shortages. He would like local employers to be aware that MESCC is involved in a computerized resume network which helps locate professional, managerial, and technical job applicants within a six-state area. Employers can ask MESCC to obtain resumes of professional job seekers whose background meet their needs in terms of experience, education, and expected salary.

The West Branch MESCC office offers its Job Services through a network of peripheral offices located in six counties. Total job placements reported by each location is as follows: Clare: 629, Gladwin: 306, Grayling: 370, Omer: 103, Oscoda: 304, Prudenville: 117, Roscommon: 182, and West Branch: 334. It should be noted that the 3 offices with the lowest jobs totals are each operated only two days a week.

Current unemployment rates for each county is as follows: Arenac 9.4%, Clare 9.5%, Gladwin 11.3%, Crawford 7.5%, Isosco 8.0%, Ogemaw 12.2%, Oscoda 8.9% and Roscommon 7.0%. The state unemployment rate is 8.2%.

Japanese Businessmen Visit Goodale's Bakery On Tour

Customers in Goodale's Bakery were probably surprised recently when the store was examined by some visiting Japanese citizens who are in the Bakery business.

While some might have thought that Goodales was selling to a foreign company, the truth was that the visitors were being hosted by the Goodales and they were looking at the operation of a small family bakery.

According to Loren Goodale II, the five men on the tour are from the Torigoe Flour Milling Co. LTD, Fukuoka, Japan. They were hosted on a tour of different types of baking facilities and mills by the Dawn Food Products Company, a nationwide supplier to bakeries.

Masanobu Ueda, chief clerk, Hirotsuka Nishio, assistant chief clerk, Hiromichi Tanaka, assistant chief clerk, Minoru Kubota, salesman and Tatsuo Kai, research and development were accompanied on the Michigan portion of the tour by Dawn Representative Gerry Webb. The men had already visited bakeries from New York to Colorado with a great deal of time spent in the Dawn Factory in Chicago. They visited many large bakeries but Goodales was the only family type they saw.

Goodale said that a letter sent to them after the visit indicated that the visitors were impressed with the cleanliness of the bakery and the high quality of bakery products.

Each of the Goodales received a small mirror (commonly carried by Japanese males) from the guests. Goodale said that they in turn presented each of the Japanese representatives with a T-shirt with the Goodales logo imprinted on it.

From the Goodale Bakery, the men went to Mackinaw Island for some rest and relaxation, Goodale said.

Job Training Available For Workers Age 55+

Northeast Michigan Consortium has received a $92,400 grant from the Governor's Office for Job Training to train men and women over the age of 55 for available jobs.

With over 1000 individuals in Northeast Michigan qualifying as economically disadvantaged older workers, the grant is a positive step in reducing unemployment in this population, said Diane Phillips, from the Northeast

Michigan Consortium.

Northeast Michigan Consortium screens older workers to determine skill levels saving employers the costs of recruiting and interviewing. Employers are reimbursed for training workers over the age of 55.

These workers are noted for their devotion to the work ethic, their attention to detail and ability to get along with others, said Phillips.

She said 5 myths about older workers ought to be retired.

Myth #1 — Older workers are off sick more.

"This is not the case," said Phillips. "Older workers often have better attendance records than younger workers."

Myth #2 — Older workers won't be staying with the company as long.

"A federal program found workers age 20-30 stay with a company an average of 3.4 years while the average stay of a worker hired at age 50-60 was 15.0 years.

Myth #3 — Older workers have no energy.

"Studies show a majority of employers prefer workers over 55 because they work harder."

Myth #4 — Older workers require more training.

"Most older workers have had stringent work histories and usually have many skills."

Myth #5 — You can't teach an old dog new tricks.

"Interest to learn stays high in most persons until age 70."

For further information contact Eileen Couchman of Northeast Michigan Consortium at 517/348-8709.

Help Available For Young Homebuyers

New purchase price limits for homes financed in the Michigan Mortgage credit certificate program have been announced by the federal government.

The Michigan Mortgage is a way for young families, especially first-time homebuyers, to purchase a house. The credit certificates lower the cost of the buyer's mortgage interest by as much as 2.5 percentage points, and that makes the financing much more affordable for families just getting started.

In Crawford County, the maximum sales price for a new house will be $71,060. For existing homes, the sales price limit will be $54,890.

Income limits are unchanged, at $30,000 for buyers of new houses and $28,000 for buyers of existing homes.

For more information on the Michigan Mortgage credit certificates, contact (517) 335-2039.

In Crawford County, the lending institutions taking applications for the Michigan Mortgage credit certificates are First Financial Mortgage Company, Great Lakes Federal Savings, Lambrecht Company, Old Kent Bank of Gaylord, and Northwestern Savings and Loan Association.

A whole generation of Grayling kids grew up working at Bob's Drive-In or cruising its parking lot. Located near where the current Grayling 7-Eleven store is, Bob's was the place to be in our small town for years. The owners Bob and Marilyn McClain and their children were the main reason for its popularity during the years they operated the drive-in from 1968 to 1976. They were friendly and always fun to be around.

Bob's also hired many of the most popular Grayling High School girls. This attracted more school boys which in turn attracted more girls to the place.

The food was good there and it was a great gathering spot. If you wanted to find your friends during the summer, you simply went to Bob's. If they weren't there, the car-hops knew where they were.

Those days were definitely simpler times for high school students. On a hot busy summer night, there was a good chance you might meet every one of your friends at Bob's.

The place had a lot of appeal and it was certainly unique. How many other drive-ins could hold a reunion 11 years later and have more than 100 people attend? On Saturday, August 8, at least 100 former workers and customers joined Bob and Marilyn McClain and their family for a reunion at Hartwick Pines. Here's a list of most of the people who attended but so many people were coming and going the list isn't complete.

Preserving Freedom Requires Training But Local Taxpayers Shouldn't Bear Tax Burden

Every year we experience an influx of tourists and Military Guards. Each year deals with its own individual circumstances. This year there is an obvious increase in public unrest expressed toward the Military. Law Enforcement has had its own particular confrontations which have had to be dealt with, some of which have been recently brought to the public's attention. I would like to clarify in regard to Grayling City Police activities that to this date we have had much less to deal with in Military related incidents than in past years.

General Andrews Michigan National Guard Commander has indicated his awareness of the public relations importance connected with Military activities. I firmly believe the General is genuinely intent on improving Guard/Citizen relations, and has plans in place to do so. I believe that concerns and complaints from the Public will be addressed and in the end are going to prove beneficial. What the Public is generally not aware of is that the minority of any group often discredits the majority when they become unruly or inconsiderate. This fact is not reserved for the Military alone as anyone in Law Enforcement will readily attest to.

Regretfully, problems experienced by the Grayling City Police have centered around the Michigan Guard Personnel. Even more unfortunate is the fact that by design all military uniforms and equipment are standardized, consequently not only law enforcement but civilians as well have difficulty identifying which training encampment may be responsible for specific complaints. Because of this we often tend to lump all complaints together and direct them to the Military in general. This is a very unfair attitude and must constantly be reviewed for fair consideration.

Grayling, being a community of 1700-plus residents (5000-plus if the entire County is included) for 3/4rds of the year remains a fairly stable and peaceful community. It obviously becomes a much busier center with the influx of summer tourists and Military training. This presents a staggering increase in public safety for law enforcement which is geared to a taxbase and work load of far less population. It is our nature to "blame the other guys", as previously mentioned. It is also an accepted theory that 10% of any group often is responsible for discrediting the whole. Law Enforcement personnel being no different than anyone else often finds themselves following these same tendencies and must constantly be aware of where the blame properly belongs.

Speaking as a resident of the community and having resided here since birth, I can speak with some authority that military training activities have severely changed, and restricted many of the recreational areas which were once available. Many of us, myself included, considered these areas as "free land" for our enjoyment. I remind myself constantly (and would take this opportunity to ask others to do the same) that our American Heritage of Freedom is only possible by maintaining our ability to defend and preserve it. To that end I must accept what is being required from us. Although in agreement with County Treasurer Joseph Wakeleys' recent statement that because every American benefits from Military preparedness, I also do not feel that Crawford County taxpayers should be expected to shoulder the burden of tax dollar loss alone. With mutual effort this to can be successfully resolved.

Sincerely,

Peter W. Stephan

Military Must Earn Respect

Dear Editor:

In regards to the article printed in the Ypsilanti Press about citizen complaints of the Grayling National Guard camp in Michigan.

The President is always complaining about the military budget, well here is a prime example of tax waste. No wonder our taxes are high, the tax dollars are being abused by the military, and not just in the states but overseas as well for the "European Vacations" which are, in my opinion totally unnecessary, as we have more than enough terrain and conditions for any kind of training without coming close to communities, here in the states.

Where are the superior officers responsible for disciplining these people? If they can't control them enough to police up their activities, how can they be expected to discipline them enough to lead their men into battle?

This indicates that war games are just that, games! If these officers can't even organize a training session, how can we expect these overgrown juveniles to go into battle to protect and defend our country, when there is apparently no seriousness to their training.

I know some national guardsmen, and I would no sooner let them water my dog, let alone guard my country.

National guardsmen receive most of the benefits of regular military, and in my opinion no way deserve these privileges. I believe that veterans of foreign wars should be allowed at least the same privileges as the guard, they earned it.

The military budget would not be so heavy if it weren't wasted on month long parties for immature weekend warriors.

The American people and press related to the Vietnam Veterans as animals and uncivilized, yet even though they were in a combat situation, they had enough dignity to clean up their garbage. What's the excuse for the guardsman acting as they do in their summer resort?

After the disgusting article about the military lack of discipline which allows this type of behavior, I'm almost ashamed to say I served in the United States military. Since these people represent the U.S., would they show this lack of respect and discipline in a foreign land? What happened to the military standards and principles?

I'm sure all guard units are not this way, but one bad article about one bad unit can give most people the impression that the whole military is the same way.

If the guardsmen want the respect that goes with the military, then let them earn it. Respect is earned, it's not a God given right.

Ron Tripp
Vietnam Veteran and Over Taxed Taxpayer

(Editor's note: The article Tripp refers to is reprinted below.)

GRAYLING (AP)—Neighbors of the National Guard's newly expanded Camp Grayling are feeling fatigued by their constant encounters with midnight gun fire, forests set ablaze by grenades and helicopters that swoop down to spy on sunbathers.

The camp this year has been barraged with citizen complaints about the war games and the behavior of its camouflaged cadre of weekend warriors, said Major Gen. Vernon Andrews, commander of the Michigan National Guard. There (is concern that) we're trying to take over all of Crawford and Kalkaska counties. It's not correct," Andrews said. "We're only trying to get enough property so our guardsman can train."

The 146,000-acre military reserve this year began training soldiers on state-owned land in Kalkaska County that previously had been used as a buffer between the war games and private property.

The property borders the land of Margaret Custer, who says her chickens stopped laying eggs during a 10-day training session by an Indiana guard unit last month.

The woods across from her home are sometimes filled with small fires started by weapons fire and camouflaged soldiers carrying rifles and creeping behind trees, Custer said. "We just hope and pray they don't come back," she said.

There are similar complaints from throughout the two counties. In Grayling, the owners of a trailer park have collected 1,000 petition signatures in a bid to convince state lawmakers to block expansion of the camp, including a proposed $22 million artillery range.

"When they start going around here, it's pretty bad, like you're living in Beirut or something," said Lydia Welser, owner of the Timberly trailer park.

The training session involving the Indiana National Guard resulted in more than 100 complaints over a 10-day period, said Lt. Col. Patrick Nunn, who was named the first full-time complaint officer at Camp Grayling as a response to the growing local acrimony.

The gripes ranged from fires started in wooded areas, a helicopter landing on private property, loud artillery noises at night and a complaint that a military jeep left its caravan to pull into a tavern bar, Nunn said.

Andrews said complaints included soldiers buzzing sunbathers with helicopters to heavy tanks mowing down trees.

Guard units also are required to clean up their debris. Custer said she and a neighbor filled several garbage bags with spent shells, food containers and mock grenades found near her property.

But Nunn said he already recalled a guard troop from Bay City to clean up garbage that it had left behind.

Nunn said some complaints aren't justified. "There are a number of residents who knowingly move out by the range, then complain," he said.

A June 18 forest fire started by a mock grenade burned 880 acres of state-owned land and forced the evacuation of 10 families.

The citizen complaints have paralleled the camp's plans for expansion. Camp Grayling also announced recently that it would increase its winter and night training.

Peter W. Stephan

Special Interests Chip at Candidates

by Richard Millman

PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGNING these days—just about a year before either party nominates its slate—is a wonder to behold.

Everywhere you look, it seems, a presidential candidate is bound to appear. Democratic hopefuls made the trek to Michigan recently, at the invitation of Gov. James Blanchard and the organization of Democratic governors. Not much new emerged as far as the public is concerned, but it is reasonable to assume that private sessions between the candidates and the governors produced some bonds which will bear fruit for somebody sometime in the future.

Relations between the White House and the various statehouses are very important—at least for the governors. Washington has a finger in a lot of pies, and a successful governor needs a friend in high places.

By the same token, the various governors can be very helpful to presidential candidates in winning the nomination, and to a lesser degree in winning the election. Most of the help sought at this point by the several candidates, however, is to win the nomination next year.

THUS THE PANDERING to special interests is in high gear for all the candidates, to one extent or another. Governors, representing the states and the regions, are one of those special interests.

So are big city mayors, and labor leaders, and business leaders, and senior citizens, and militant women's groups, and farm interests, and defense contractors, and on and on.

The candidates of both parties must feel sometimes as if they are being drawn and quartered, with first this special interest and then that special interest chipping off a piece of candidate commitment—all in the interest of amassing enough support to win the nomination for president.

Sometimes they must wonder if it's all worth it.

WALTER MONDALE—remember him?—fell victim to this special interest yoke in 1984, according to most readings of the political waters at the time. Organized labor was especially blamed for aiding Mondale's presidential demise; leaders of the big unions came out early and strong for Mr. Mondale, long before the nominating convention. Thus, Mr. Mondale was seen by many as being completely in labor's pocket, which doesn't go down too well with non-labor voters.

The same sort of thing may develop for 1988, too. The attitudes of at least a couple of the Democratic hopefuls indicate labor leaders will not have to do too much brow-beating to line up their support for labor goals.

The national AFL-CIO invited the candidates to submit brief video tapes, which the parent organization then would make available to member unions.

FORMER GOV. Bruce Babbitt of Arizona left little doubt where he stands. Noting that the AFL-CIO headquarters in Washington is just across Lafayette Park from the White House, Mr. Babbitt told the tape machine:

"When I'm president, I will take that walk across Lafayette Park on one of my very first days in office, and I'll listen to what your representatives have to say. We may not agree on every point, but I won't forget that workers helped me put America back in charge of its economic agenda."

Then there was Sen. Paul Simon, who left no doubt where he stands. He boasted: "Of all the candidates for president, I've had the highest COPE rating for each of the past four years....that tells you the kind of president I'm going to be."

Indeed it does, Senator....just like Mr. Mondale would have been.

COPE, of course, is the AFL-CIO political action arm, and rates members of Congress on their votes on issues labor thinks important.

We probably shouldn't blame either Gov. Babbitt or Sen. Simon too much; almost all the candidates will have similar approaches to one interest group or another, depending upon individual assessments and individual commitments.

But it's sort of eye-opening to see the commitments expressed as blatantly as Candidates Babbitt and Simon have done.

MAYBE THERE are better ways to pick our presidential candidates than the mix of primaries and caucuses and conventions now used. Maybe there are ways that special interests could be written right out of the process.

Sen. Bill Bradley, New Jersey Democrat, may have hit upon just such a possibility. Sen. Bradley was an outstanding college basketball player, who once played professionally for the New York Knicks. Discussing the best way to pick a president, Sen. Bradley mused:

"How shall we Democrats choose our next presidential candidate? Shall it be in a smoke-filled room? Shall it be by brokered convention? Shall it be by a national primary?"

"Personally, I prefer jump shots from the top of the key."

Maybe ex-Knick Bradley has something there. It makes as much sense as some of the things that go on in a presidential campaign.

Trees Butchered, Not Trimmed

Dear Jon:

This is my first letter to an editor. That is why I came in last week as I thought it would be a story about the rape of our trees and I wouldn't have to write.

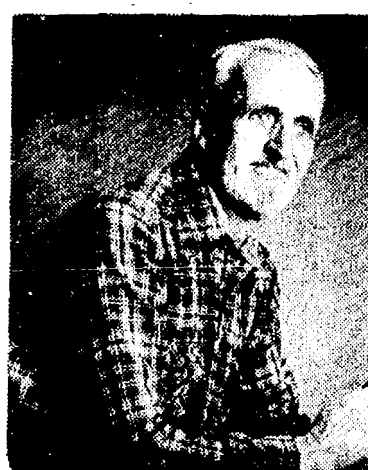

The utility company (companies) apparently hired someone to trim trees along their lines as has been done in the past. In the past the trees were trimmed in a manner as can be seen on Ottawa between Cedar and Peninsular to protect the lines but leave the trees with minimum damage.

They didn't trim the trees on the northeast side of Peninsular. They cut them half down. I looked out my second floor front window and couldn't believe it. I could see Shepherds house right through the two trees in front of my house. In the past this was only possible in the winter time when the leaves were off the trees. When I saw this I went out and was further shocked when I looked up the street toward McClellan. In the past driving from Michigan Ave. to McClellan street you could see trees on both sides of Peninsular. Now you still see the trees to your left (Southwest side) but to your right, night or day, all you are aware of is the utility lines.

I'm too old to ever see the front of my house shaded again but I hope these butchers can be stopped before half of the trees in Grayling are destroyed.

Oh Mercy - Do we have a Problem?

By Don Geiss

Recently we were able to glance at a Mercy Hospital publication which we assume was a bulletin for employees. One paragraph was headed "Forums This Week" and stated "Bob Maher will be summarizing the recent downsizing at Employee Forums tomorrow and Wednesday."

We will guess that the creative word "downsizing" meant that there would be a discussion about how so many employees were and will be laid off.

The person Bob Maher, who was referred to in the bulletin, is the fellow who is president of the hospital, although he is not too well known in this community. It has been explained to us that with the new regime at the hospital a "few" changes will be made to make it more efficient.

It would appear that thus far the changes mean that all of the services possible will be sent to the Cadillac facility and removed from the Grayling hospital. That tells us we can expect more and more of our local people to get the axe.

From the many comments that we have heard about the services, some of the changes tend to cost the local patients more money. Word has it that private laboratories are turning out test results for less money than is charged by Mercy when those tests are sent to Cadillac. We also understand that the tests take considerably longer to be returned from the other facility than from the private lab.

We are told that the billing will also be going through the Cadillac facility if they are not already being handled that way. It all began when the laundry was sent to the other location. We were told then that to avoid purchasing new equipment at the local hospital it would be more efficient to send the stuff down there.

Then it was shared presidents and hosts of vice-presidents and other top brass. The changes continued with the tests and now the billing and goodness only knows what other things that are hushed.

We have been bombarded from many directions about the residents' concerns. It has reached proportions that can no longer be ignored. Few people have anything kind to say about the changes that have been taking place. Rumors are circulating all over the area but apparently the administration has elected to stonewall the matter or they are too distant to know what is going on.

After this community dove into the fund raising for the additions it appears that the corporation has turned its back. Cadillac is apparently the fair haired member of the corporation's northern division.

If the hospital is no longer a community affair and everything is sent to Cadillac, perhaps Munson or Burns is not too far away after all for many of us.

Personal comment: No health delivery profession can give a patient a new spine. Conservative Chiropractic management, however, is the preferred approach to minimize the consequences of disturbed biomechanics and concomitant syndromes. Results are what count. For many, we offer a second chance not just a second opinion.

Help Offered To Families With Emotionally Disturbed Child

Families with emotionally disturbed children will have an opportunity to receive help with the formation of a local chapter of the Michigan Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children (MAEDC) which will cover Crawford, Ogemaw, Oscoda and Roscommon Counties. Chapter organization has been supported by COOR Intermediate School District and the Department of Social Services in Crawford, Ogemaw, Oscoda and Roscommon. This first meeting will be held in October.

The mission of MAEDC is to stimulate the development of needed services for all children with emotional problems, informing governmental, state and local agency administrator's and the general public of gaps in service, and developing solutions to the diverse problems which face emotionally disturbed children. Local MAEDC Chapters also provide support, advocacy and education to affected families.

Parents who are frequently worried or upset about their child because of his or her behavior may be helped by attending a MAEDC Meeting. These children exhibit one or more of the following behaviors:

1. Inability to get along with other children.
2. Problems in school with following directions or academics.
3. Frequent anger or hostility.
4. Withdraw and avoidance of other people.
5. Appear frightened of normal situations.
6. Seem immature for their age.
7. Act in a way that seems inappropriate or unusual.

8. Cry frequently and/or easily.

9. Seem defiant or extremely stubborn.

10. Unable to concentrate for any length of time.

11. High activity level, are often in trouble.

12. Generally seem to feel bad about themselves.

Parents, professionals and concerned citizens can receive more information regarding MAEDC by calling Donna O'Grady, Crawford County Department of Social Services, 348-7691.

EAGLES DONATE—The local Auxiliary of the Fraternal Order of Eagles presented a gift of two hundred dollars to the Crawford County Library to purchase large print books for the elderly and visually handicapped. Auxiliary president Joan McClelland (2nd from right) gives Rose Duley, the head librarian, the check for $200 along with Dorothy Evans (left), past presidents, and auxiliary member Peggy Barnes (right).

Eagle Auxiliaries receive the grants from the Order's Memorial Foundation in appreciation of their support of the senior citizen oriented Golden Eagle Fund which the Foundation administers. Eagles raise money for this project which makes available grants to bona fide charitable organizations working on programs aiding the aged.

Commission on Aging

Every week in this space we will feature questions and answers concerning the proposed new Senior Citizens Community Building. You are invited to send in any questions you have to COA, P.O. Box 427, Grayling 49738. All questions will be answered in this space.

Q- If the Commission on Aging moves to a new site, aren't the Grayling Housing Commission tenants being abandoned?

A- No! All tenants will continue receiving all the same services provided by COA, including homemaking, personal care, meals on wheels, chore service, financial assistance, health programs, information and referral, congregating dining, and all other services we provide.

Q- What percentage of Grayling Housing Commission senior tenants participate in Commission on Aging programs and activities?

A- Tenant participation varies according to the activity or program, from a low of 0% to a high of 42%, with an overall average of 26%. The high tenant participation is for services provided by COA in the senior tenant apartments, and these services will continue, regardless of the location of the Commission on Aging office. Some of the activities held at the present COA location have no tenant participation.

Q- Will Grayling Housing Commission senior tenants continue to receive Commission on Aging Services?

A- Yes! All services provided by the Commission on Aging are available to the Grayling Housing senior tenants, as well as all other residents of Crawford County who are 60 years of age or older. This includes services in the home, meals, health programs and recreational activities.

skiing, archery, canoeing, crafts, boating and many other summertime activities. Sighted counselors and staff are on hand to ensure safety and assist during activities.

Kromm-Halstead United in Marriage

Margaret Anne Kromm and Dwane Jay Halstead were united in marriage on June 27, 1987, at their home in Edgewood, Maryland. Performing the service was retired Chaplain Roland Day. The bride is a resident of Edgewood, Maryland, and the groom was a resident of Grayling, Michigan.

Standing for Margaret and Dwane were her mother, Mrs. Connie Clark and his son, Christopher Halstead. Family and friends gathered to join them in this ceremony. Attending from California were brother of the groom and his wife, Leslie and Sherrie Halstead. A reception immediately followed at their home.

The groom was transferred from the Michigan National Guard to Maryland. He is now employed by the State Maintenance Office as an equipment specialist. The couple is now living in Edgewood, Maryland. The groom's son and daughter, Christopher and Kelley Halstead are living with them for their summer vacation.

Doodles From The Tall Timber

Wendell L. Hoover, Park Interpreter

A camper asked me the other night if I knew what species of bats were to be found in the park. Out of the thirty-nine species of bats only six have been found in Michigan. The most common here is the Little Brown. Bats are the only truly flying mammals. They are able to fly because of a membrane of skin stretching between the hand and finger bones and extending to the forearm, side of body and hind leg.

All bats within North America are nocturnal and nearly all eat insects which they capture on the wing. They may have very poor vision, but that is made up for a highly evolved sonar system which locates solid objects. While flying they emit a series of supersonic sounds that bounce back from other objects. These sounds are picked up by the bat which allows it to navigate in total darkness.

During the day bats hang head down in the foliage of trees, hollow trees, attics, caves, mine tunnels or abandoned chimneys. Young bats cling to their mother for some time after birth, but when they become a burden to her flight they are left at the roosting site.

To keep them out of buildings takes a lot of effort since they tend to squeeze through some very, very small openings. Since our area bats migrate for the winter it is best to close off roosting sites then.

Resource Review

The 1987-88 Hunting and Trapping Guide is now available. It contains an error of which you should be aware. The rifle/shotgun boundary as described under "Zones Described" on page 11 is incorrect. The boundary has not been changed and reads as follows:

"Exact dividing line between the northern and southern Lower Peninsula is described: Highway M-46 from Lake Michigan at Muskegon to U.S.-131 at Cedar Springs, then south on U.S.-131 to M-57, then east on M-57 to Montcalm Road on Kent-Montcalm County line, then south on Montcalm Road and the Kent-Ionia County line to M-44, then east on M-44 to M-66, then north on M-66 to M-57, then east on M-57 to M-52 near Chesaning, then north on M-52 to M-46, then east on M-46 to M-47, then north on M-47 to U.S.-10 west of Bay City, then east on U.S.-10 to I-75, then north on I-75 and U.S.-23 to Beaver Road (about 1 mile north of Kawkawlin,) then east to Saginaw Bay.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

Part 7 - The Right To Alter Government

Do Americans have the right to demand that their children learn to live by the Declaration of Independence? Do Americans have the right to demand that all government laws be squared by the values and principles of the Declaration of Independence? Do Americans have a right to demand of political candidates where they stand on the values declared in the Declaration of Independence? Is such respect and loyalty to our primary freedom document illogical or unreasonable?

We repeat part of the "rights" paragraph of the Declaration of Independence: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness."

Edmund Burke once said, "The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing." We have allowed society to alter our unalienable rights to life, liberty and property. We have permitted government to become destructive of these basic rights. We have stopped as Christians being the salt and light of society, and have degenerated into effeminate cowards who play at religion and shun the spiritual armor of conflict which is essential if we are to have spiritual and moral revival in our nation, our families, and our churches. If this generation does not fight Marxism in government, and Modernism in religion we will have no homes or families to worry about in the coming century.

It is time we square all religious thinking by the Bible. It is time we square all civil laws by the Declaration of Independence and the U.S. Constitution. It is time for us to do right even if we must suffer the persecution of imprisonment, social ostracism, loss of reputation, and even the possibility we might die in defeat at the hands of the "loving" Modernist and Marxist who are pressing for world control. President Coolidge once said, "America was born in a revival of religion." Without another revival of Bible Christianity America soon will die. (Hear "The Bible Speaks" at 12:15 p.m. Tuesday on WQON 100 FM).

Trust your child!

Someone has observed that "the opposite of trust is not mis-trust but fear." This holds water in all areas of life where trust is called for, but especially within the family circle.

We don't trust children because WE FEAR what they will do with freedom. Certainly, sometimes they blow it. Yet, most of the time they handle it with responsibility, given the long range of things and enough time.

Often we do not trust our offsprings because we fear our parenting was short, inadequate. Yet, most of us are better parents than we dare imagine.

But if we don't trust our children, what choice have we? Lock them in cages of imprisoning rules? Forfeit real security for immediate safety?

Jesus' story about the Prodigal Son comes into clear focus for us. All the loving father could do was trust—that trust that his son would make it home.

And he did.

National Network Helps Local Century 21 Offices Prosper

"The grass is always greener on the other side of the fence and Century 21 had the franchise for sale in this area so I took advantage of it."

That comment was made by Gordon "Sandy" Thompson recently when he talked about his venture into co-owning the Century 21 Real Estate franchise. He explained that it is necessary to purchase a franchise but the big advantage is in the national advertising.

Thompson said, "In the state of Michigan, whenever real estate is mentioned, 91 percent of the people mention Century 21 first." He said, "Of course that does not mean that they all do business with the company." He commented that the national advertising is responsible for the notoriety.

The national sales of Century 21 in 1985 was 440,000 homes, Thompson noted. That compares with 140,000 homes for the next closest competitor, he said.

Thompson has been in the real estate business for 16 years. He received his sales license in 1971 and six years later he obtained his brokers license.

Since investing in the business in Crawford County, Thompson has also purchased a Century 21 franchise in Roscommon. He explained that the area of coverage here runs almost to the City of Roscommon. The other runs from there to St. Helen and part of Higgins Lake. He explained that a major advantage of the Century 21 operation is a referral system.

The referral system, Thompson explained, is a system where he can sell a house for a local person who, for instance, might be moving to Kansas City. He uses a franchise book to find the appropriate Century 21 company there and notifies them of the prospective purchaser moving to their area. "The incentive for us to refer is that we receive a commission from the Kansas City business if they sell a home to that prospect", he noted.

Thompson noted that the referral system means that his sales staff has what is termed "hot prospects." He explained that these would be persons referred to them by other franchisees. The local salesperson immediately contacts that prospect when the referral is received and makes an appointment to show homes to him (her).

A "cold prospect" is someone who happens to call or walk in the door, Thompson said. While we are anxious to serve those customers too, he commented, for the most part our sales staff does not have to sit and wait for people to walk in the door.

Thompson said that Century 21 has the best schooling in the business. He said, "You can go to school almost 52 weeks out of the year if you desire." "We are very fortunate in Grayling because the Holiday Inn here is the training base for all of the sales people north of U.S. 10 including the Upper Peninsula". It is possible at one time to have 500 sales persons here, he commented. He said they can be spotted around town by the gold coats they wear.

Thompson said that the sales of vacant property is coming back. He commented that for a while when automobile workers were laid off, land sales were bad. At that point there were a lot of repossessions as well so there were many two, five and ten acre plots available, he noted.

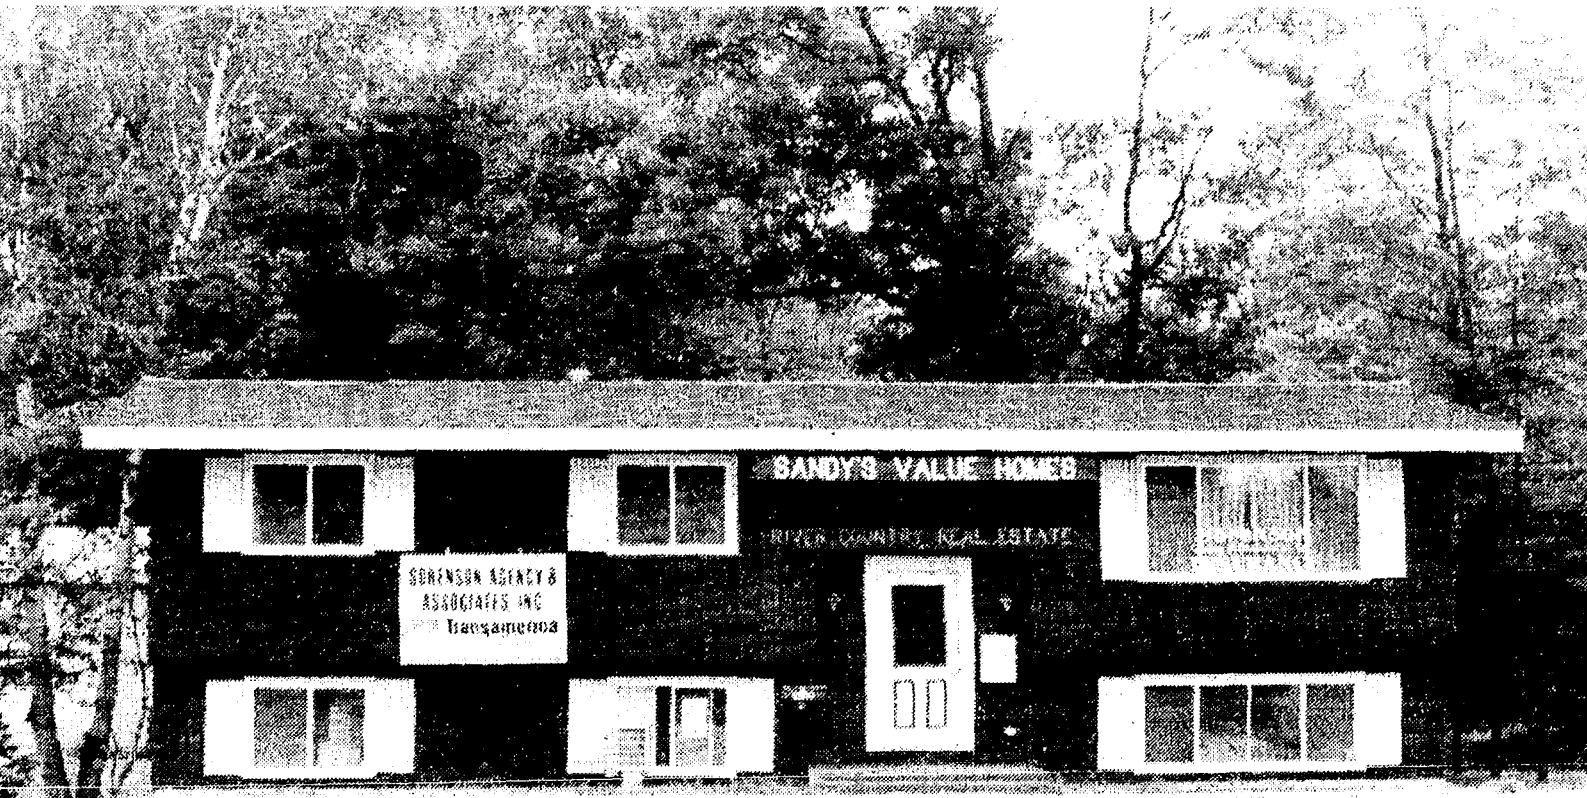

In commenting about the recently approved Natural Rivers Plan for the AuSable River, he expressed disapproval for the plan in general. "From the real estate standpoint, what it is going to do is make property with existing homes on them more valuable and salable." He pointed out that new construction will be 200 feet away from the river.

Thompson said that the local office has 12 full time and four part time sales persons. The Roscommon franchise has six full time and three part time people. At any one time there are about 150 houses and 300 pieces of property on the listing board, he observed.

The market locally has been improving steadily, Thompson said. He attributes the consistent annual sales increases for his company to an excellent sales staff.

Thompson said that he has experienced many unusual things in real estate since he has been in the business. On one occasion he listed a home, returned to the office and a neighbor down the street called him and bought the house over the telephone. He noted that infrequently a For Sale sign is placed on the wrong lot. He commented that the reason for that is because a non-resident calls and describes a lot. If it turns out to be inaccurate, there is then a misplaced sign.

One of the finest references we have had, Thompson explained, is the sale of a home a number of times. That, he noted, shows that the original buyer was satisfied by his purchase and when he goes to sell gives us the opportunity to do the job for him.

Daly Joins Crawford Extension

Roy Spangler, County Extension Director, announces that Elizabeth (Bettie) Daly has joined the Crawford County Extension staff. Ms. Daly, an Extension Home Economist whose resident office is Lake City, will be serving here during the absence of Gail Edwards who is presently on disability leave. Her office hours here will be Tuesdays from 8:30 until 4:30.
